Dear colleagues,

I am circulating here, with permission, a document Patience sent to me in response to my circulation of the extended summary of findings from the integrity panel report. I think this document might be important because it relates to the comparison of the three papers - the published paper, the unpublished paper, and the white paper - and therefore has a bearing on the authorship question. It also provides more detail about the production of the published paper. As we move forward with the mediation process it is important that we all be participating in the same discussion. I am not sure that has been the case up thus far.

As has been the case the past two weeks i am only sporadically available by email so if i am a bit slow in responding please do not take it as disapproval or indifference.

regards

Howard Gadlin
